

Inclusive Research Network Workshop 9/2/2009

The workshop started with tea /coffee & everybody meeting &with each other again

Then we divided into 4 groups & had a quiz on what we had learnt between the last two workshops. It was a good icebreaker & worked better than reading over everything that happened so far.

After a short break we looked at & talked about a questionnaire that Stephen & Edel had prepared about where people lived and where they would like to live in the future. We agreed that some of the questions needed to be made a bit easier because not everyone knew what they meant.

We then had lunch

After lunch we broke into groups and practiced using the questionnaire. People took turns to ask the questions and fill out a recording form. We also agreed that Edel & Stephen would develop a new questionnaire which could then be emailed to people. It was decided that members could use this questionnaire with friends and people in their services to practice the skills they had learned at the Inclusive Research Network Workshops. In June people could talk about their experiences of using the questionnaire and conducting interviews in 'real-life'.

After that we had the presentation of the certificates for those who attended all three workshops.

Then it was time to ask everyone how they felt about the day and to invite them to the get together on June 11th in Galway

Then it was time to go home

